Case No. 17-cv-313-JAG

DECLARATION OF JENNIFER M. KEOUGH ON BEHALF OF JUDGMENT ADMINISTRATOR, JND LEGAL ADMINISTRATION LLC

I, JENNIFER M. KEOUGH, declare and state as follows:

1. I am the Chief Executive Officer and President of JND Legal Administration (“JND”). This Declaration is based on my personal knowledge, as well as upon information provided to me by experienced JND employees, and if called upon to do so, I could and would testify competently thereto.

2. JND is serving as the Class and Judgment Administrator in the above-captioned litigation (the “Litigation”) pursuant to the Court’s Orders by Judge John A. Gibney, Jr. (ECF Nos. 158, 339 at ¶3).

3. In its Order dated January 6, 2023 (ECF No. 610), the Court approved a revised schedule for providing notice in respect of the Motion for Fees and Costs.

CLASS MEMBER DATA

4. As set forth in my Declaration dated December 14, 2019 (ECF No. 248), JND previously established a secure database for class member data in this Litigation. The database contains a total of 74,815 records. Prior to effecting notice, JND verified the address information using data from the National Change of Address (“NCOA”) database, which confirmed 62,676 addresses and updated 4,978 addresses. Of the records in the database, 794 were associated with an opt out request and 6,378 had no mailing address, and accordingly were omitted from the mailing, resulting in a mailing list containing 67,643 records (“Postcard Notice Mailing List”).

MAILED NOTICE

5. On January 13, 2023, JND caused the Postcard Notice to be mailed via USPS first-class mail to the 67,643 records in the Postcard Notice Mailing List. A representative sample of the mailed Postcard Notice is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

6. In the event any potential Class Member’s notice is returned as undeliverable, JND uses all reasonable secondary efforts to deliver the notice to the Class Member. This includes re-mailing any notices returned as undeliverable with a forwarding address and conducting an advanced address search using TransUnion’s TLO search, where such a search had not already been conducted, for any notices returned undeliverable without a forwarding address in an attempt to locate an updated address. JND will re-mail the notice to anyone for whom JND is able to obtain an updated address.

7. As of the date of this Declaration, JND has tracked 8,500 notices that have been returned to JND as undeliverable at the address provided. JND re-mailed a total of 669 notices to forwarding addresses provided by USPS. For the remaining undeliverable notices, JND conducted advanced address research through TransUnion’s TLO service, which located updated addresses for 2,589 Class Members. JND duly re-mailed the Notice of Settlement to those potential Class members for whom a new address was obtained.

SUMMARY NOTICE

8. JND caused the Summary Notice to be published on January 19, 2023, in The Oklahoman, Tulsa World, The Ardmoreite, Fairview Republican, Hughes County Tribune, and McAlester News-Capital. Digital copies of the Summary Notice as seen in these publications is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

WEBSITE AND TOLL-FREE NUMBER

9. On January 17, 2023, JND updated the dedicated website (www.cline-sunoco.com), which was originally launched on November 8, 2019, to include the Motion for Fees and Costs (ECF No. 390); Class Representative's Unopposed Notice to the Court Regarding Proposed Schedule for Class Counsel's Notice (ECF No. 604); the Court's Order dated January 6, 2023 (ECF No. 610); and representative samples of the Postcard Notice and Summary Notice. JND subsequently added the Declaration of Barbara A. Ley (ECF No. 317-1) and the Plan of Allocation Order (ECF No. 339) to the site. JND also updated the information provided on the website and on the toll-free number to reflect the current status of the action and the options available to the Certified Class.

10. Since January 17, 2023, the website has tracked 1,142 unique users with 2,601 pageviews. JND will continue to update and maintain the website throughout the administration and distribution process.

OBJECTIONS

11. The Postcard and Summary Notices direct that Class Members who would like to object to the Motion for Fees and Costs may do so by filing an objection with the Court by no later than February 14, 2023.

12. As of the date of this Declaration, JND is not aware of any objections having been filed with the Court.

AMOUNTS ON DEPOSIT

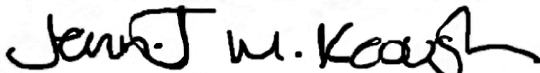

13. On November 2, 2022, Defendants deposited $161,132,229.03 into the Cline v. Sunoco Judgement Fund Account with JND, which consisted of: (1) $155,691,486 – the amount of the Final Judgment, plus $440,743.03 in interest earned on that amount since August 27, 2020; and (2) $5,000,000.00 – the amount of stipulated costs and fees paid by Defendants pursuant to the Stipulation. See ECF 536. Upon instruction of Class Counsel, this amount was segregated into two separate interest-bearing accounts consisting of the foregoing respective amounts. As of the date of this Declaration, the two accounts have respective balances of: (1) $156,893,580.59, comprised of the principal amount deposited by Defendants plus $761,351.56 in accrued interest; and (2) $5,036,927.76, comprised of the principal amount deposited by Defendants plus $36,927.76 in accrued interest.

ADMINISTRATION COSTS

14. As of December 31, 2022, JND had incurred $140,480.28 in administration fees and costs, which includes mailing the Notice of Pendency and the Notice to Class Members; processing opt-out requests submitted in response to the Notice of Pendency; establishing and maintaining a dedicated website and toll-free number; establishing the Judgment Fund Account; and responding to Class Member correspondence. JND estimates the total cost of bringing the administration of the Settlement to completion will not exceed $360,000.00.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

State and local laws require public notice because you need to know when actions that affect you are about to happen. We expect accountability, transparency and warnings from our state and local governments.

Many important notices are included as part of this newspaper. Printed newspaper notices are permanent, affordable, archived, independent of government and well-read.

In a statewide survey, 68% of Oklahoma said government should be required to publish notices in local newspapers. Furthermore, 70% said government should not be allowed to put notices only on their own website. Oklahomans know Internet postings don't achieve the same results as printed notice put in the hands of local Citizens.

this whole configuration was located on the other side of the ball field.

I though being a seventh grader was neat until I got into high school and realized that my basketball size (and probably ability as well) was that of an eighth grader, not a freshman. And not that I would have a car to drive but I couldn't get my drivers license until January 12 of my senior year.

UPON GRADUATION from college (at age 20) I was hired to teach English at Del City High School until the powers that were in charge decided that a 20-year-old probably shouldn't be teaching English classes with 18 and 19 year olds in it.

So I was redirected to Steed Elementary and

I always take every opportunity to share this little particle of information to teachers complaining about their pay.

I taught fifth grade, coached football, boys and girls basketball, girls softball, boys baseball, boys and girls track, sponsored the Jr. Police squad and had bus duty, before and after school duty, lunch and recess duty.

All for the mighty sum of $2,400 (per YEAR) and that included a $100 MAN'S bonus because women teachers in the Midi-Del system had NO duty, as decreed by Supt. Oscar Rose. Think he could get by with that nowadays?

But being sent to Steed was a blessing because it provided a stepping stone to Monroney Jr. High for which I STILL thank God every day. For 22 years of coaching (early morning) 7th grade basketball, 7th grade football, track, teaching English and Journalism, sponsoring the school newspaper and the year-book and I landed in the counselor's office for the last 10 years of my tenure.

And created friendships with teachers, students and parents that are still strong today.

Example: Just last week, I had dinner at that fabulous Los Aztecas Mexican Restaurant in Choctaw. When I got ready to pay, I was told that my ticket had been paid for by "a boy you coached in 7th grade football at Monroney Jr. High."

I cried like a baby.

Oklahoma health officials will take back management of health lab

By KAYLA BRANCH
THE FRONTIER

After more than two years marked with staffing shortages and citations from federal inspectors, management of the Oklahoma Public Health Lab will shift back from a private nonprofit vendor to the State Department of Health at the end of January.

Prairie One Solutions, a nonprofit formed under the Oklahoma State University Research Foundation, took over management of the lab in late 2020. The facility processes vital testing for the state, including health screenings for newborns, tests for COVID-19 and other infectious diseases.

Prairie One Solution's initial contract with the state in December 2020 was for one year with four automatic renewal periods. But the Health Department said Wednesday in a statement to The Frontier that transitioning management of the lab back to the state has "always been the plan."

The statement said the agency was "grateful" for its collaboration with Oklahoma State University and Prairie One Solutions. The state has paid Prairie One Solutions nearly $2.5 million to manage the lab.

"...But we believe it is the right time for OSDH to take the reins in managing the lab," the statement said. "We are excited and ready to manage the PHL, and are committed to growing and building the lab to make it one of the top labs in the country."

State Commissioner of Health Keith Reed told lawmakers during a budget hearing Wednesday at the Oklahoma Capitol that the Health Department will repurpose the money spent on its $1.5-million-a-year contract with Prairie One Solutions and the agency will absorb employees in key staff positions.

Kenneth Sewell, president of the Oklahoma State Research Foundation and founder of Prairie One Solutions, said they were "pleased with our critical role in filling gaps in our state's public health system."

"We support this move, recognizing Prairie One Solutions was set up at a critical time with a sense of urgency during the early stages of the emerging COVID-19 pandemic," Sewell said in a statement to The Frontier.

Gov. Kevin Stitt announced in late 2020 that the lab would move from Oklahoma City to Stillwater. The Public Health Lab had been included in plans for a pandemic research center on the OSU campus that state officials said would be a "global leader in promoting pandemic awareness and preserving public health."

Following the move, which many criticized as rushed and without legislative oversight, the lab has faced critical staffing shortages, federal investigations on mishandling of COVID-19 tests, and testing delays after the lab had to outsource work it could no longer handle in its new facility.

Sen. Julia Kirt (D-Oklahoma City) sits on the Senate's Health and Human Services Appropriations Committee and said she was surprised to learn of the management transition.

"We are facing the consequences of hasty decisions by the governor to move the public health lab in the middle of the pandemic," Kirt said. "Many of us advised against the knee-jerk move and for further analysis of long-term needs and consequences."

Reed said Wednesday that funding for the pandemic center had not been realized, so health officials are trying to hammer out future plans for the Public Health Lab. The building that now houses the lab in Stillwater would require further construction to bring back tests that have been outsourced. The agency could also put trailers that it ordered in late 2020 behind the lab building and run some tests there.

"I'm focusing on trying to get the Public Health Lab back to the operational standard I need it at now," Reed said. "I don't want to rely on another Public Health Lab to meet the needs I feel like we should be able to."

The Health Department is asking state lawmakers for funding to cover debt payments for a $58.5-million bond lawmakers approved in 2017 for building a new Public Health Lab. Reed said the agency is comparing the costs of renovating the existing building versus constructing a new facility in the same location.

The agency owns the current lab building and the land it's on in Stillwater.

The Health Department has already spent at least $30 million to move the Public Health Lab after using federal COVID-19 relief money to cover pandemic-related payroll costs, freeing up other money out of its own budget to move the facility.

18-year-old arrested after Del City shooting

Hallie Hart

The Oklahoman
USA TODAY NETWORK

Police have arrested an 18-year-old man in connection with a Tuesday night shooting after a high school basketball game in Del City.

Del City police said shots were fired about 7:36 p.m. inside Del City High School's John Smith Fieldhouse after a boys basketball game between Del City and Millwood.

Police said one person was hit by gunfire. The victim was driven to OU Medical Center in a personal vehicle and is listed as stable, according to police.

The identity of the man arrested Wednesday was not released by police because he has not been formally charged. Police said neither the man arrested nor the victim are Del City High School students or affiliated with Mid-Del Public Schools.

Two on-duty Del City officers and two more off-duty officers were working security at the game, according to police. After officers evacuated the gym, more shots were reported in the school parking lot.

After the incident, Del City Principal Steve Gilliland announced the school was shifting to a virtual learning day Wednesday.

"After the completion of the boys basketball game against Millwood High School, a fight occurred and gunshots were fired inside the field house," Gilliland said in a news release. "The Del City Police Department is onsite and investigating the incident. ... We will continue to update our families as more information becomes available."

Del City is returning to in-person learning Thursday.

Toni Lewis, the mother of Del City senior forward Brandon Garrison, said Tuesday night on Twitter that her son and the team were "doing good." Millwood senior guard William Mays also said Tuesday night on Twitter that both teams were safe and thanked the public for praying for both schools.

LOVE OF MUSIC A TEACHING MOMENT IN 1956

Children grasp a drum, tambourine and other handheld musical instruments during a rhythm band session in 1956 at Dale Rogers School. The school was formed in 1953 by a group of parents who had children with disabilities. They named the school in honor of Dale Evans Rogers, whose daughter with husband Roy Rogers had Down syndrome. This photo accompanied a Jan. 19, 1956, Oklahoma City Times story about the school needing financial assistance. The story also reported that music was a favorite of the students, whose speech benefited from singing. The agency evolved into what is now known as the Dale Rogers Training Center.

Wes Moore sworn in as Maryland's first Black governor

By Brian Witte
Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland Gov. Wes Moore was sworn in as the state's first Black governor on Wednesday, punctuating his inauguration with references to Black history that included an acknowledgement of the enslaved people who once arrived by ship near the state Capitol.

Before his inaugural speech, Moore attended a wreath-laying ceremony at the Annapolis City Dock, which was once a regional slave port and the site of a memorial to enslaved African Kunta Kinte, who arrived there in 1767 and was written about in Alex Haley's book "Roots."

Moore was joined by other Black leaders at the ceremony on a bright sunny morning, including Maryland Rep. Kweisi Mfume, Attorney General Anthony Brown, former Lt. Gov. Michael Steele, and former Massachusetts Gov. Deval Patrick, who was the second Black governor elected in the nation's history in 2006. Virginia's Douglas Wilder was the first Black governor elected in 1989, and Moore is the nation's third.

"I feel lifted up and encouraged that Black talent has been recognized and has an opportunity to come forward," Patrick said in an interview with The Associated Press after the ceremony.

Steele, a former chairman of the Republican National Committee who was Maryland's first Black candidate elected statewide, described the inauguration as an exciting day for the state.

"It's interesting to watch these things unfold in a world in which there's still resistance to it, but we're excited here in Maryland and I'm honored to be a part of it today and be a part of that line as well," Steele said while walking in a procession up the city's Main Street.

Former NAACP president Ben Jealous, Baltimore Mayor Brandon Scott and former Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend also attended.

Moore took the oath of office using a Bible owned by Frederick Douglass, a Marylander who escaped slavery on the state's Eastern Shore before going on to become an author and famed abolitionist.

When Moore gives his inaugural speech as Maryland's 63rd governor, he will be looking out on a mall in front of the Capitol with a statue of U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall.

One thing Moore won't see: The statue of U.S. Supreme Court Justice Roger B. Taney, who authored the infamous 1857 Dred Scott decision declaring that Black people could not be U.S. citizens. That statue stood for nearly 145 years outside the Maryland State House before Moore's predecessor, Republican Gov. Larry Hogan, ordered it removed in response to racial violence in Charlottesville, Va.

Moore's running mate, Aruna Miller, also will be making history on Wednesday. She is the first immigrant and first Asian American elected statewide in Maryland.

Anger grows in Virginia city where first-grader shot teacher

By Ben Finley and Denise Lavoie
Associated Press

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — When a 6-year-old shot and wounded his first-grade teacher in this shipbuilding city near Virginia's coast, the community reacted with collective shock.

But the sentiment percolated over 12 days into rage from parents and particularly from teachers, with many lambasting school administrators Tuesday night for what they said was a misguided emphasis on attendance and other education statistics over the safety of children and staff.

During a three-hour school board meeting dedicated solely to public comment, Newport News teachers and parents said students who assaulted classmates and staff were routinely allowed to stay in the classroom with few consequences. They said the shooting of Abigail Zwerner could have been prevented if not for a toxic environment in which teachers' concerns are systemically ignored.

"Every day in every one of our schools, teachers, students and other staff members are being hurt," high school librarian Nicole Cooke told the board. "Every day, they're hit. They're bitten. They're beaten. And they're allowed to stay so that our numbers look good."

Addressing superintendent George Parker, Cooke said: "If Abigail had been respected, she wouldn't be in the hospital right now."

The shooting occurred on Jan. 6 as Zwerner taught her first-grade class at Richneck Elementary. There was no warning and no struggle before the 6-year-old pointed the gun at his teacher and fired one round, police said.

The bullet pierced Zwerner's hand and struck her chest. The 25-year-old hustled her students out of the classroom before being rushed to the hospital.

out in other Miami neighborhoods and main thoroughfares, leaving empty lots or parks where houses and businesses once stood.

Once a full buyout occurs, the property cannot be built on again.

Miami's fairgrounds, a city park and community swimming pool, once considered one of the largest in the state, are regularly inundated with flood water from the nearby Neosho River, making them unusable for weeks at a time, Stotts said.

With no resolution in sight, the city has made efforts to begin shifting any new development further away from the river. But there is only so much land that can be used for development, and the city's coffers are not flush with cash, Stotts said.

The Grand River Dam Authority and, to a lesser extent, the federal government purchased much of the land that was expected to be flooded to make Grand Lake in the 1930s and 1940s. But the purchases weren't adequate to prevent surrounding communities from future flooding, said Jack Dalrymple, Miami's city engineer.

Federal documents Dalrymple provided to The Frontier show that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers was aware of the danger of flooding upstream from the dam since at least 1942 and a consultant recommended buying out land owners in Miami.

Archived documents from the Corps of Engineers from 1957 show the agency recommended that Miami-area property owners be paid for damages if flooding occurred, rather than the federal government proactively buying additional land, because it would be cheaper.

Sullivan said he believes federal authorities should purchase more land or easements, but it could come with major drawbacks for Miami. Land buyouts would kill any chances for future development and could decimate the town.

While Parker said previous city leaders have unsuccessfully tried negotiating with the Grand River Dam Authority to work out a solution for the town's flooding, he had hoped he would be able to reach a deal shortly after being elected.

"They all tried the same thing I tried.

GRDA does not want to fix this because it doesn't benefit them financially," he said.

Brannen Parrish, public affairs specialist for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Tulsa district, said Grand Lake is considered a state reservoir, and the only jurisdiction the Corps has over the dam is ordering water releases once the lake level at the dam gets to flood stage.

While the Corps is not opposed to acquiring additional easements or land to address the flooding issue, it cannot do so without Congressional approval and funding to make those buys, an agency official said.

The Corps is currently working with the city of Miami to identify flood-prone areas and evaluate mitigation strategies.

The exact role the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers plays on Grand Lake is a question the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is currently considering. In January 2022, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia issued a ruling in favor of the city of Miami, ordering the federal regulator to determine what role the Corps plays in preventing flooding and whether the Grand River Dam bears any responsibility for the flooding in Miami.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission has yet to issue a subsequent ruling in response to the court order.
